

Performance Appraisal & Career Growth Policy

Purpose

This fictional policy explains the Acme Digital performance review and career development process.

Performance Reviews

Formal performance reviews occur twice each year, in June and December. Employees complete a self-review before the manager review. The cycle includes goal review, competency discussion, feedback and development planning.

Evaluation Rubric

The mock rubric uses four dimensions: delivery against agreed goals, quality of work, collaboration, and learning/growth. Managers should provide evidence-based feedback and document examples.

Promotion Eligibility

Promotion discussions consider sustained performance at the current level, demonstrated capability for the target level, role requirements and organizational need. Completion of a training course alone does not guarantee promotion.

Learning and Certification

Employees can request reimbursement for approved role-relevant certifications. Requests should be submitted before purchase and include the course or certification details and estimated cost.